Saturday, October 3rd—San Mateo Event Center

The Anniversary Party is our Central Office's main fundraiser, and a big part of that is our very successful Silent Auction. Having a large variety of baskets and items is key to its success. Items can be contributed by groups or individuals and can be large or small.

Popular items include:

• Gift cards/Tickets/Passes to stores, movie theaters, coffee shops, restaurants, sporting events, etc.
• Gift baskets with themes like gourmet foods, recovery, relaxation, coffee/teatime, movies, sweet treats, or whatever creative ideas you can think of.
o Feel free to decorate your basket, however, don't worry if you don't – our Silent Auction Committee will be able to spruce it up for you!

• Services such as haircuts, massages, manicures (should be donated by AA members)
If you or your group will be submitting an item, please let us know by emailing us at AASMparty@gmail.com

THE WAR WITHIN

I never expected to be drafted into the military. It was September of 1969. I had recently left a religious order where I had been preparing to become a Christian brother. I had spent years trying to find a life of purpose, but it wasn't the right path for me. That's when Uncle Sam called.

I began basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Early on, a captain asked if anyone wanted to volunteer to become a chaplain assistant. I raised my hand. I didn't know it at the time, but that moment would change everything. After a series of interviews, I was sent to chaplain school in New York for 12 weeks. That's when I learned the truth: Every chaplain assistant was being sent to Vietnam.

I landed in Vietnam in March 1970, and I was assigned to two chaplains—one Catholic, one Protestant. We were based in Pleiku, in the Central Highlands near the Cambodian border. My role was part soldier, part spiritual guardian. I protected the chaplains and made sure they could visit the combat troops every day. We traveled by jeep. When needed, we flew in by helicopter. There were no days off.

Time moved slowly in Vietnam. At night I spent my evenings at the Pleiku hospital, sitting with wounded troops. Many couldn't write home, so I helped them write letters to their families. I became their hands and hearts when they couldn't use their own.

It was gut-wrenching. The emotional weight of war sank into me, and I didn't have the tools to carry it. That's when alcohol took hold. What started as a way to numb the pain I felt quickly became a dependency. I returned home in April of 1971 with a Bronze Star and a drinking problem.

Ten years later, my wife gave me a choice: Get help or get out. We had two young daughters, and I didn't want to lose them. That's when I walked into my first AA meeting in 1983.

It wasn't easy. At first, I didn't believe I could stay sober. I didn't believe I deserved peace. But a day at a time, I started showing up—for myself, for my family and for my fellow alcoholics. I have not had a drink since.

I've now been sober 42 years. I'll turn 77 in March of 2025. For the past 16 years I've volunteered at our VA Hospital, working in the Homeless Veterans Program. Every time I walk those halls I remember how close I came to losing everything—and how far I've come since I walked into AA.

Sobriety gave me back my life. It gave me the chance to be the husband, father and friend I was always meant to be. These days I just try to do the next right thing. Whether it's driving a fellow vet to an appointment, making coffee at a meeting or helping someone write a letter home, I've learned that service is the bridge between pain and purpose.

AA didn't just help me get sober, it helped me remember who I am. And for that, I'm grateful every single day.

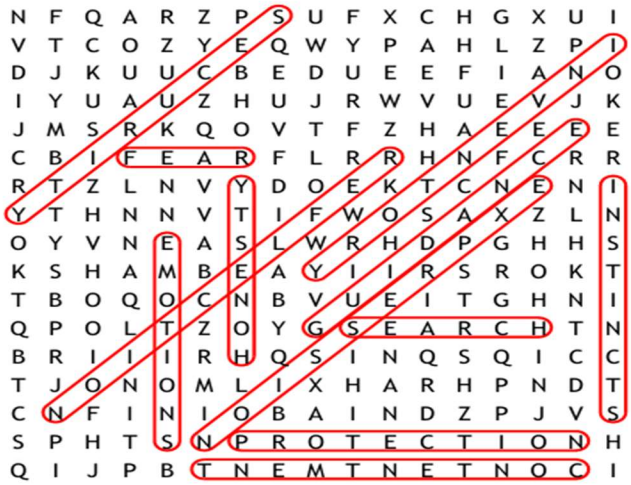
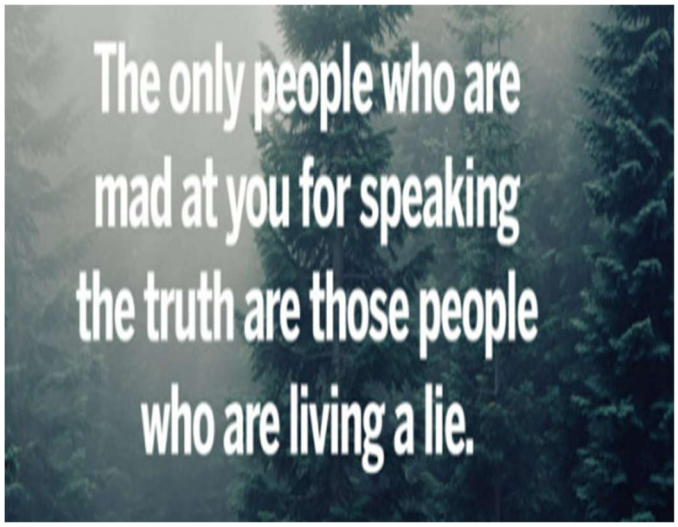
STEP FOUR (Answer Key)





STEP FIVE

Admitted to God, to ourselves and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

Me Too

Driving to my sponsor's house to do my Fifth Step left me in a squall of emotions. I was shocked—and I still am—that my car somehow kept driving to her house. I knew what had to be done. I had read the description of the Step in the Big Book several times before going to her house that day. I was afraid, however, of a deep, dark secret I had never told anyone: I had been sexually abused as a child.

No one knew this about me. Why would I tell anyone about it now? It doesn't bother me. I don't use it for an excuse. It's not why I drink. But then the line from the Big Book kept running in my mind: "We pocket our pride and go to it, illuminating every twist of character, every dark cranny of the past." So I said to myself, I'm going to tell her. I don't want to drink. I'm not leaving anything in the dark crannies of my mind. And that was that.

I pulled my car up to my sponsor's house. We made the usual greetings and sat down to it. "Start at the beginning," she said. I jumped around, telling my sagas and my moments of turmoil, still not sure if I was resolute in my decision to tell her my secret. After a while of feeling some of the other weights lift, the words finally fell out of my mouth. I told her. She took some notes that would later become my Tenth Step inventory and then looked up at me and said, "Me too."

To say my jaw fell off my face is not enough to describe the reaction in my body. To say that the sun was sunnier, her couch was comfier, my jeans fit better, my skin was clearer, my panic attacks were subsiding in that moment isn't enough either. What was enough and still is to this day were the words, "Me too."

I had run from that secret for so long, until finally I ran headfirst into it. I told someone that big, deep, dark secret out loud for the first time ever in my 37 years on this planet. And it was scary.

After that, the rest of my secrets and resentments and wrongs I did to others came tumbling out. I sat with my sponsor for five hours that day. That's what it took to get light shined on all the dark nooks and crannies of my past. It was also the first time I ever felt free.

So "me too" isn't what you think it is in AA. Me too is strength, hope and most of all, and above all else on that day for me was experience. My sponsor said it happened to her too. And some day our experience is going to bring hope to other still suffering alcoholics. A Promise came true that day: I will not regret the past, nor wish to shut the door on it.
